

Canadian Journal of Gastroenterology & Hepatology Editor-in-Chief

The Canadian Association of Gastroenterology (CAG) and the Canadian Association for the Study of the Liver (CASL) are seeking applicants for the position of Editor-in-Chief (EIC) of the Canadian Journal of Gastroenterology & Hepatology, effective January 1, 2015. Applications from both individual candidates and from two candidates jointly applying as Co-Editors-in-Chief (one luminal focused and one liver focused) will be welcomed.

The successful candidate(s) will enter an overlap period with the current EIC, from January 1 to March 31, 2015. The EIC/Co-EICs will be appointed by the Boards of the CAG and CASL, and Pulsus Group on recommendation of a Search and Selection Committee. The EIC/Co-EICs will serve up to a five-year, non-renewable term.

The EIC/Co-EICs will be a well-respected, recognized Canadian leader(s) in gastroenterology and/or hepatology. It is expected the successful candidate(s) will be an effective communicator(s) as reflected by peer-reviewed publications, presentations at national and international conferences, and previous experience as a journal reviewer(s)/member(s) of an editorial board. It is expected the successful candidate(s) will have administrative skills and a vision for the Journal, as well as a willingness to promote the Journal.

The EIC/Co-EIC will have control over the scientific and editorial content of the Journal. He/she/they will appoint Associate Editors and Editorial Board members with the approval of the Communications Committee of the CAG and CASL Governing Boards.

The EIC/Co-EICs and the Editorial Board will be responsible for maintaining the highest standards of the Journal, including selection of high-quality articles and reviews; developing long-term plans; and for preparing an annual report. The EIC/Co-EICs will report to the Chair of the Communications Committee of the CAG and CASL Governing Boards.

An appropriate stipend will be paid to the EIC/Co-EICs as reimbursement for relevant time commitments and costs.

Full applications (including a current curriculum vitae, vision statement and names of three referees) must be received in electronic format by e-mail to CAGOffice@cag-acg.org, no later than October 31, 2014. Expressions of interest, nominations or informal enquires may also be made by e-mail to Dr Borgaonkar: CAGOffice@cag-acg.org

Dr Mark Borgaonkar
Chairman, Joint Search and Selection Committee of the Canadian Association of Gastroenterology and the Canadian Association of the Study of the Liver
1540 Cornwall Road, Suite 224
Oakville, Ontario L6J 7W5

