CME/CPD Mission Statement

The mission of the Canadian Association for the Study of the Liver (CASL) Continuing Professional Development (CPD) program is to optimize and improve the liver health of Canadians by providing national leadership in education, and timely access to programming and resources to impact the knowledge, practice skill, and competence of physicians, future clinicians and other allied health professionals in all aspects of medical care, research, and therapies, as it pertains to the liver.

The CPD program promotes and provides opportunities for life-long learning needs of hepatologists and all health professionals in fields pertaining to the treatment of liver disease.

Through an evolving process based on the needs of our community, our goals are:

- To regularly assess the professional development needs of our community and target audience;
- To create and partner in educational activities consistent with identified needs;
- To use a varied format of educational programming to reach different areas of our target audience, and to be innovative in tactics chosen;
- To review and approved CPD activities created in partnership with medical organizations, in line with the guidelines and criteria set out by the RCPSC;
- To co-develop CPD activities with non-medical organizations;
- To regularly evaluate the effectiveness of our educational programming and impact on attendees in their practice and research.

Target Audience:

- Professionals and allied health professionals interested in liver diseases.
- Any health professional looking to expand their knowledge in liver diseases.
